1. As a child, Mary had wonderful memories of her grandmother. They did so many exciting
2. things together: swimming in the ocean, flying kites, making snowmen in the front yard. But

5. to Winchester, VA to visit her grandmother, who was staying in hospital there.
6. Mary hated highway driving, finding it ugly and monotonous. She preferred to take back

17. commented on their beauty, and asked where she had gotten them. Mary was overjoyed by the 18. ability of the flowers to wake up something inside her . Afterwards, Mary began carrying
19. flowers in the car during her trips to visit her grandmother.
20. It was a chilly morning in late October when Mary got the call. The man at the hospital
21. calmly informed her that her grandmother had taken a turn for the worse. Mary got in her car
22. and headed to the hospital. She sped past the place where she usually stopped to pick the
23. flowers. After continuing ahead for about a mile, she drove back.
24. When Mary arrived back at the flowers, she was surprised to see how many of them had
25. withered and turned brown, probably as a result of the cold. Nonetheless, she spotted a patch
26. that bravely retained their bright purple glow. She cut a few of them and hopped back into her
27. car and headed for the hospital. When Mary arrived at the hospital, she found her grandmother
28. very weak and unresponsive. She placed the flowers in the jug and sat down to hold her
29. grandmother's hand. She felt a light touch on one of her fingers. It would be the last
30. conversation they ever had.
